Areas of Practice

Construction Contract Drafting | Construction Dispute Resolution | Energy Law | Litigation/Trial Practice

Todd Heffner is a first-chair litigator focused on serving clients in the construction and energy industries. Todd serves as Counsel in the Construction Law Practice of Smith, Gambrell & Russell, LLP.

Todd focuses his practice on construction and energy law, with a specialization in litigating high-stakes construction claims and other highly technical disputes. He has handled a diverse array of projects, including power plants, chemical plants, airports, wind farms, military bases, solar farms, highway reconstruction, water treatment facilities, environmental projects, hospitals, rail projects, high-rises, and various other commercial and industrial endeavors.

Known for his doggedly pragmatic approach to litigation, Todd strives to help clients achieve their goals by zeroing in on what matters most. He regularly takes cases to trial, averaging at least one major trial or final arbitration hearing each year.

Todd also counsels clients in all phases of the construction process. This includes advising on project development, contract drafting and negotiation, and dispute avoidance and risk mitigation during construction.

Recognizing the document-intensive nature of construction disputes, Todd has also cultivated an expertise in eDiscovery. Todd's knowledge allows him to conduct discovery in an efficient manner by keeping up with the latest developments in the law and using the latest technology.

Todd serves as the president of the Georgia Tech Bar Association. In that role, Todd works to both connect Georgia Tech lawyers with each other and to provide mentoring programs and scholarships for aspiring lawyers. He also regularly volunteers with Camp Twin Lakes, which provides accessible camp programs for children and youth with special needs, including participating in its Spin for Kids fundraiser.

Todd received his law degree magna cum laude from Washington and Lee in 2013, where he also served on the Law Review, and his undergraduate degree from Georgia Tech in 2009.

Representative Experience

- Obtained a decisive seven-figure judgment following a week-long arbitration against a general contractor who refused to honor its change orders after accelerating the schedule.
- Represented an investor-owned electric utility in the procurement and generation development of 8,500 MW of capacity resources to satisfy demand requirements. This work included drafting and negotiation of engineering, procurement, and construction agreements, equipment supply agreements, and other related agreements.
- Assisted an owner with an eight-figure recovery against the original equipment manufacturer after bringing claims in federal court.
- Assisted a specialty rail contractor in resolving an eight-figure delay and inefficiency dispute with a public agency without the need for litigation.
- Obtained a decisive seven-figure judgment following a two-week trial against a module manufacturer who supplied defective modules and refused to honor its warranty.
- Obtained a $35.5 million arbitration award following a two-week, 22 witness evidentiary hearing against an engineer that specified and furnished defective equipment for three solar facilities, resulting in the production of significantly lower amounts of electricity than promised to the off-takers.
- Regularly represent various owners, designers, and contractors in negotiations of bespoke contracts, as well as AIA, Consensus Docs, and other industry standard forms.
- Develop customized standard form agreements and exhibits for owners with unique needs for use across all future projects.
- Assist designers and contractors in the development and implementation of master services agreements and standard subcontracts for repeated and efficient use across projects.
- Fully defeated a turbine supplier's seven-figure claim for additional costs on behalf of the project owner through a three-week arbitration hearing.
- Successfully defended a solar facility owner facing an eight-figure claim from its EPC contractor, resulting in the recovery of a seven-figure judgment based on successful counterclaims.
- Advised an international owner, as project counsel, on contract management, dispute resolution, and contract negotiations for the company's $9.4 billion construction of an industrial complex.
- Assisted a joint venture in the resolution of a seven-figure delay and inefficiency claim against a subcontractor through successful mediation.

- Represented a global chemical manufacturer in the resolution of more than $100 million in claims against the engineer of record on a $2.5 billion project.
- Obtained a seven-figure arbitration award for a global chemical manufacturer in a dispute with a supplier on a $2.5 billion project.
